About ISES and IEA SHC

ISES, the International Solar Energy Society is a membership-based UN-accredited NGO founded in 1954. Today, ISES and its sections are active in 110 countries around the world to advance the society's mission: 100% renewable energy for all, used efficiently and wisely.

ISES first started organizing EuroSun congresses in 1996 and since 2022, ISES is joined by the Solar Heating and Cooling Programme of the International Energy Agency (IEA SHC) as co-organizer of the conference.

IEA SHC was established in 1977, as one of the first programmes of the International Energy Agency and its vision is to, through multi-disciplinary international collaborative research and knowledge exchange, as well as market and policy recommendations, increase the deployment rate of solar heating and cooling systems by breaking down the technical and non-technical barriers to increase deployment.
